Gentelmen:

On June 1st, a package was delivered to me to the above address. It had been shipped from Chicago Ill, by The Wilson Sporting Goods Co. It had been sent to the ballclub to the training camp in Richmond Va., and due to the fact we had broken camp, the package was forwarded to me to Newark. There were two boxes.

When I unpacked the boxes I discovered one had been opened, and a jacket taken out. When the driver delivered the boxes, he placed them on the floor, and the side that had been broken open was on the floor. I of course did not turn the box over to look at the bottom, as such a thought did not enter my mind. It was not until the boxes were emptied that I made the discovery. I still have the boxes, and it is easy to see where it was opened.

Will you send some one to inspect the box, in an effort to assit us in straightening the matter out. If you have any suggestion to offer me, I will appreciate very much hearing from you.

Very Truly Yours
